Cambridge, Cambridgeshire & Fenland Illustrations: a Catalogue of Mike Petty's Collection.

This is a catalogue of Cambridge and Cambridgeshire illustrations collected by Mike Petty. It is being constantly updated. This version was compiled in one sequence on 30 May 2016. It is continued on Dropbox

The items are arranged using a similar classification scheme to that of the Cambridgeshire Collection at Cambridge Central Library. This usually comprises three sections concluding with a date. The letter J denotes 1800, K 1900. Thus K3 is the 1930s, K34 1934. There is a separate guide to the Classification schedule.

Some illustrations are from books: Cambridge Portfolio (Pfo) Cambridge Revisited (Crev); Highways and Byways (Hig). Harper Cambridge Ely Kings Lynn Rd - (Harp); Dawn of Day and Ely Diocesan Magazine (Dawn); Lysons (Lys), Bentham Ely Cathedral (Ben); Palmer Wm Cole (Cole).

McMahonScan 217 addng The village's sacrifices during the two World Wars are commemorated on the war memorial which in 1981 was in need of some attention: Little Thetford war memorial may be moved in a bid to protect it from attack by damp & fungus. The Parish Council is to appeal to village organisations to put up £12 towards the £240 needed to clean the memorial and replace lettering. Council chairman Mrs Elizabeth Veal says over the years a row of trees have kept the wind & sun off the memorial and so it has deteriorated with damp & fungus growing over it. They may perhaps move it to a better place in the cemetery. Vice chair Mrs Patricia Shaw said money had already been pledged by some organisations; the Under Fives Club was amongst those raising funds. News 7th May 1981 neg	WLW.The.K81

Y.Went.K66 5	59.156		Whilst other villages struggle to maintain their school or shop, for the villagers of the small hamlet of Wentworth it has been the church that has dominated their community struggles. In November 1966 workmen were busy redecorating the inside of the church. The rector, Rev J.A.R. Lisney said the oldest members of the congregation could not remember when it was last done – it might have been as far back as 1868.News 26th November 1966 neg 7679/D
Y.Went.K66 5	9.165		The redecoration was celebrated at a service in February 1967 when the Bishop of Huntingdon, Rev.
			Robert Martineau, making his first visit to the parish, praised their work. The collection at the service was devoted, not to parochial needs, but for church reformation in Aberfan, where coal waste had overwhelmed a school and houses in 1966, leaving 114 dead, including 116 children. News 29th

Y.Went.K87 5	09.276		More restoration was needed in 1987: Every time it rains, the congregation of a village church has to get out the buckets. Now they have started fund-raising in a race against time to repair the roof before it gets much worse. With winter approaching the parishioners of Wentworth fear that the bad weather will wreak havoc with St Peter's Church, parts of which date back to the 12th century. They are holding a fete at the village school to raise some of the £20,000 necessary to retile the roof. One of the organisers, Mrs Maureen Woodbine, said: "The roof is in desperate need of repair. If it rains we need several buckets to collect the water during the service". The priest in charge, the Rev Richard Mathews said the cost of the works depended on the kind of tiles chosen for the picturesque little church.

			but it cost £2,400 a year to run the church & the village hall, which forms part of the church nave. A programme of events was put in hand to raise the money but village hall treasurer Ann Sinclair- Russell said it was reaching crisis point. She was pictured with Mary Macadie and Ian Howlett

He has always concentrated on teaching children the basic skills before setting them free to discover things for themselves. "Young children like an atmosphere of discipline and showing off what they can do. Above all I think they like personal contact with the teacher", Mr Gothard said. This school interested him particularly because it was changing with the village with new families moving in. The children of these families often knew less than the village children, while being generally more intelligent. Wilburton was a village of honest, hard working people, who provided a good background for their children. She is helped by her son Simon - now the village postman - and Anita Woods, and she enjoys every minute of her long working day. "So much has changed since I started. For one thing the fact that we are a post office as well as selling groceries has kept us going - the growth of supermarkets would have seen us off, I'm sure", she said. "Now it's just a matter of having grown up with all the people in the village and we are all friends. People come in all the time just for a chat. Wilburton is a wonderful village with a wonderful crowd of people". One person who agrees with that is Mrs Beryl Cornwell (no relation). "Her friendly, personal nature in running the store puts supermarkets to shame. She is always at the counter with a smile and always a good listener to customer's problems. Y.Wilb.K88 60.358		In August 1988 the church bells rang out as villagers celebrated winning a battle with county planners. Cambridgeshire County Council wanted to build a new settlement, Westmere, between Wilburton and Stretham. Residents of the two villages were alone in opposing the scheme and organised a campaign to stop the development which was ultimately successful. News 4th August	W.49.1.K88
Y.Wilb.K90 60.320		1988 neg 4178.88.14 Pupils at the Manor School undertook conservation work in the woodland surrounding their buildings: The group, led by teacher Dave Wilkinson, built an access ramp to a pond, felled trees and cleared scrubland in the school's seven-and-a-half acre grounds. Mr Wilkinson said: "Areas of the grounds had become neglected and overgrown & needed to be cleared before we could use them for project work with the children. Everyone worked extremely hard. I must thank the Ely Conservation Group; without their help I don't think the work would have got under way". Seven-hundred-year-old St Peter's is in need of urgent structural repairs and renovations to windows and stonework. The appeal will be launched with an exhibition of village history and a display of the repairs which must be done. Members of the appeal committee were pictured in the church. Mr Pell, who was a solicitor in his early years moved to the village in 1917 and sold agricultural land to enable the low-cost rented housing to be built for local people. Known as Pell Cottages, they were granted special planning permission by East Cambridgeshire District Council. With some funding from The Housing Corporation the society hopes to provide more accommodation for people with housing needs. Mr Pell said: "I am proud that the cottages have been named after me. A start on the conversion of Nissen huts which once housed R.A.F. Bomber Command personnel was made in December 1949. The school was finally opened on April 9, 1951. The first phase of the permanent buildings consisting of a hall, a small hall, a gymnasium, kitchen & administrative accommodation was included in the 1960/61 building programme. The remainder of the new buildings followed next year and the school abandoned the last of the Nissen huts during the summer term of 1963. It was due to the leadership of the school's first headmaster, the late Mr G. W. Dobson that the school established its place in the community it serves. They are angry because Cambridgeshire County Council first put forward plans for the by-pass five years ago - but nothing has happened since. Residents feel cheated and fobbed off. They feel they have been patient long enough and that it is just a matter of time before someone is killed or seriously injured. As part of the ceremony she rode a pony and trap on the route. The road was the last part of the county council's Fen Link Road scheme which over the past 12 years has involved by-passing 16 villages and towns on the A142, to open up the Fens for economic development. It was expected to carry more than 8,000 vehicles per day, 15 per cent of them heavy lorries. More than 100 of the 187 pupils, aged between four and 11, crossed the road twice a day. A petition had been handed over by villagers. The County road safety officer said she had been made redundant because of the by-pass. The flow of traffic outside the school no longer met national criteria for providing a crossing patrol, he said News 15th June 1990 neg 3814.90.8

One of the first people to use the road was Frank Allen, riding an old motor cycle. He is chairman of the King's Lynn branch of the Vintage Motorcycle Club and has attended 58 TT Races and 12 Manx Grand Prix. Frank, now a spritely 85 and retired from running his family's small garage in Main Street, has been a parish councillor for 35 years. The Allen family have a long and proud heritage in Witchford. The school celebrated a special anniversary in 1994: Pupils at Rackham School have been looking back to Victorian times to celebrate the school's 150th anniversary. Staff tried to find as many former pupils as possible who attended the school before 1945 - and around 30 attended a special tea party. Headmaster Sid Wales said: "They came across to the school and linked up with a small group of present-day pupils. They took each other on a tour of the school. Baptist church, church, floodlit, St Andrew's Hall, sign Witchford airfield museum: The last of the old hangars on the war-time airfield were used by Anglia Agricultural Merchants as a grain store until 1973. The area has subsequently been redeveloped as the Lancaster Way Business Park. It retains a poignant reminder of its wartime days in the form of a museum dedicated to the memory of the men and women who served at R.A.F. Witchford. Its principal exhibit is the engine of a Lancaster bomber that crashed in 1944 and lay buried for 51 years. The plane was shot down by a German fighter as it returned to Witchford Airfield. It crashed at Coveney and all seven crew were killed. Amateur war historian Barry Aldridge and a group of enthusiasts masterminded the excavation of three of the plane's engines. Civic pride came took a knock in June 1968: Witcham parish councillors switched to the role of a working party - with an eye to the Parish Council Associations Best Kept Village competition. That has got to be one of the largest contributory reasons". Y.Witc.K81 60.	322		For those attracted to the village, there was a special property available in May 1985 when the Jacobean Hall was advertised for sale. The house "of great character" came with seven acres of land. For anyone looking for a quieter life on one of fenland's few hills, tucked in between the recreation ground and quaint church, with its 700-year-old tower, this has to be a bargain News 18th January 1981
Y.Witc.K81 60.	.323		neg 1184.81 The Ely Weekly News visited Witcham in 1981 as part of a their Past and Present series. They photographed the quiet village street. Even Prime Minister, Margaret Thatcher, knew of the village's charms, as she revealed in the House of Commons in November 1980: "I am happy that Witcham's population of 251 has a high standard of employment and very few troubles", she told local MP Clement Freud, during a debate on the proposed closure of the village school – which followed in July 1982 despite protests News 14th November 1981 neg 1184.81

The Witcham Village Hall Committee organised a pea shooting competition for first time in July 1971. It was given world championship billing and has continued to attract competitors of all ages, as here in 1991 News 15th July 1991 neg 3810.91.13a	U.Pea.K91
Y.Witc.K95 60.	324	2908	In April 1995 the village's thriving parent and toddler group celebrated its first birthday: Founded by parents Shirley Smith, Sharon Richardson and Vivien Hayes, the group has thrived thanks to the generosity of local firms and residents. Cash came from local firms Constable Construction, The Motorist Centre in Ely, ESP, Alphaglas and the White Horse pub, as well as Witcham Parish Council and the City of Ely Council. There were toys from City Cycle centre in Ely, and donations from local people. Mrs Hayes said: "Parents sit in a relaxed atmosphere where they can chat and have a cup of coffee while the children play. They are encouraged to take an active part in the running of the group"	WG.Witc.K95
